In 1890 Col. Jones was one of the several candidates for governor. At a meeting of the state alliance in June, 1889, the farmers decided that they were entitled to name the next governor and brought forward Capt. Reuben F. Kolb, state commissioner of agriculture. In the convention Kolb led all his competitors for several ballots and had very few votes short of enough to nominate. The opposition, however, effected a sudden combination against him and insisted on Jones. Kolb and his supporters, though very sore, gracefully acceded to the will of the convention. The election resulted in the following vote: Jones, 139,910; Long, republican candidate, 42.440, with 1,491 scattering.

DEFRAUDED CHICAGO BANKS. Three Men Charged With Conspiracy-Over

The flight of George Bartels, paying teller of the Central Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, with the comparatively insignificant sum of $3,000 of the bank's cash, has unearthed what seems to have been an extensive conspiracy to defraud five Chicago banks. The cheme was partly successful and over $500,000 was secured from Bartel's former employers, but has since been made good. Another bank is said to have lost $20,000, which amount was also made good.

Three men formerly connected with the Chi-Three men formerly connected with the Chi-cago Banknote Company have been arrested, charged with conspiracy to defraud and the is-suance of fraudulent paper. These are Wil-liam A. Forbes, N. W. Burnside and Charles Manson. Bartels was the fourth man wanted. The preliminary hearing is set for Thursday. Charles Nichols, a go-between, has made affi-dayit which purports davit which purports to expose the whole scheme.

A bill in chancery asking for the appointment of a receiver for the bank note concern, filed by John B. Gribles, former president of the company, also throws light upon the methods used. Forbes was manager of the Chicago Banknote Company. Burnside, a son of a well-known physician, was associated with Forbes.

Manson was but an employe of the firm. These young men were vouched for by Gen. Allen C. Fuller and numerous men of wealth and financial influence, who appear to have trusted them fully, owing to their connection with young Burnside. They opened accounts with the Central Control of the property of the firm. These young men were vouched for by Gen. Allen C. Ocean end of New Yorkave.

lent, and later drew out the cash. By collusion with Bartels the great run on the paper was dumped on the Central Trust and Savings Bank. The teller, in the absence of the cashier, certified all paper, and the forged drafts, certified all paper, and the forged drafts, the checks, &c., were only deposited when the higher officials of the bank were out.

It is said that the plotters intended to pull all the banks they had deposited money with into their net and then break up and clear out, but the paper came to protest too soon.

According to Nichols' affidavit, the conspirators systematically wined, dined and clothed Bartels, besides paying the expenses of the teller and his friends nightly at sporting resorts. Bartels disarmed suspicion by ingeniously warning the bank officials that he was suspicious the note company was "kiting" and suggesting that a general guarantee of all transactions be secured from wealthy Dr. Burnside.
